"Melody is the soul of music, and all my music is about emotion," - Noah Preminger

Noah Preminger

Saxophone, Piano, Flute, Clarinet
"Mr. Preminger designs a different kind of sound for each note, an individual destiny and story." - The New York Times

Born in 1986, Noah Preminger grew up in Canton, Connecticut, before going to Hall High School in West Hartford - the institution that produced musicians from Brad Mehldau to Joel Frahm to Richie Barshay.

From the first day he picked up the saxophone, Preminger "knew I'd become a musician," he recalls. "I would practice eight hours a day as a young teenager. I was possessed." That school - with its ace concert jazz band directed by Haig Shahverdian - was an intimidating experience, but one that "seriously motivated you," says the saxophonist.
While still in high school, Preminger studied with saxophone great Dave Liebman, who became a hero for the young musician, albeit a challenging one.

Preminger released his debut album, Dry Bridge Road, just after his 21st birthday and it was named Debut of the Year in the Village Voice Critics Poll. By age 29, Noah has recorded numerous critically acclaimed albums and is steadily listed as one of the best tenor saxophonists by critics and readers on the annual Downbeat Poll. Two new recordings were released in early 2016, including an all-ballads date on the French vinyl label, Newvelle Records, and a recording inspired by Delta Mississippi Blues musicians, Dark Was The Night, Cold Was The Ground.
